The Increase of Bald Heads. From "A Bald and Toothless Future," by Virgit G. Eaton, in Popular Science Monthly for October: To a person who has a moderately well supplied pocket-book and a thoughtful turn of mind, there can be no more fruitful theme meditation than to go into our large halls, theatres, churches and other places of public resort, and securing a seat in the gallery or in the rear part of the room, look at the heads of the audience, for no other purpose than to ascertain by actual count how many show signs of buildness. Unless the experimenter has been in the habit of counting for this object, he will be surprised to learn that, in most of the eastern cities, fully 30 per show unmistakable signs of baldness, while nearly 20 per cent have spots on their heads that are not only baid, but actually polished with the gloss that is supposed to belong to extreme old age. I have been in the majority of the churches and theaters in all the large eastern cities, as well as in Chicago, St. Louis, and other places of the west, and have verified my assertion by actual count. From my observation I find that bald-headed men are most pientifui in New York and Boston. After these come Philadelphia, Washington, and the western towns. I say "men," for two reasons: I. Because women usually wear their hats or bonnets on such occasions, thus covering their crowns. 2. In case their hats are removed, the hair is combed up so as to cover any possible bald spot, or else else there is an artificial "switch" to hide the defects of nature. So, without in-dulging in any speculations regarding what may be, I will confine myself to what is to be seen.

Here are a few observations taken in Boston: Trinity church—248 men, 71 actually baid, 46 indications of baldness; King's Chapel—86 men, 38 actually bald, 14 indications of baldness; Hollis Street theater, orchestra at performance of the "Mikado"—63 men, 27 actually bald, 10 indications; Boston theater, Judie-126 men, 51 actually baid, 43 indications.

A Deluded People.

so-called remedies for dyspepsia are valueless, but human credulity is so strong, that some unscrupulous persons trade upon the fears of the weak and debilitated. Among the things which appeal so strongly to this weakness are Bitters, The very name is in their favor. The mode of life of the average American is of such a character, that he is constantly in need of a tonic. He is rushed at his business, swallows his meal hastily and without any thought as to the capacity of his stomach for digestion, takes little rest, and necessarily feels hipped; is sub-ject to headache, and takes often a gloomy yeek to headache, and takes often a groomy view of things generally. In such cases he resorts to bitters, under the delusion that they will act on the secretions of the stomach and give the system new strength and energy. The writer recently purchased samples of four of the most widely advertised bitters in the market, and the trade abortical analysis to which they simple chemical analysis to which they were subjected showed that they con-tained about 30 per cent. (the amount the Government allows) of the most poisonous and adulterated alcohol, and that the re-siduum consisted of various foreign sub-stances, which were simply added as flavoring extracts, to disguise the taste of the original compound. The value which so-called bitters are supposed to have is of a purely fictitions character. In fact, in time they irritate and injure the delicate mem-brane of the stomach, so vitiate the taste brane of the stomach, so vitiate the taste that the palate soon cannot distinguish between good and bad. These decoctions are consumed principally by the debilitated, the convalescent, the depressed and particularly by aged people and weak women and others to whom a stimulant is indispensable. Now, while alcohol, especially in the form of whisky, is acknowledged to be the best known stimulant, and is prescribed and used by phylscians for this purpose everywhere, we can't conceive why people will insist upon taking the alcohol in the form of a decoction, the compounding of which they know nothing and which, as shown by analysis, contains fusel oil, vitriol, catechu and poisons of the most deadly kind. It would be far better for them to come out boldly and use the pure article, something made from malt in which there is no fusel oil. There may be a little difficulty in obtaining an article of this kind, as there is only one firm in the country i.e., the discoverers of Duffy's pure malt whiskey, which distils it and which combines food

Brandreth's Pills have been used by millions of human beings. Their success is founded upon the theory of reason, and an attentive observation of symp toms of disease. Whatever makes bad digestion breeds disease, and whatever makes good digestion cures disease. Brandreth's Pills make good digestion, purify the blood and remove all bad humors out of the body by the organs of the stomach and bowels. They act in harmony with vital action and work of nutrition; the strength increases, the skin and the eye become clear, and the symptoms of the maiady are surely rendered milder by their use. They are harmless for all ages and conditions.
